Personal data obtained through communication instruments, such as the website, newsletters and email:

- contact details (as described above);
- information with which device you have visited our website, such as an IP address;
- your surfing behaviour on the website, such as:
- which data/web pages you have viewed from us;
- the way you navigate through the website;
- whether you open a newsletter or email and on which parts you click;
- the dates and times of the visit to the website;
- the operating system you use;

- your geolocation;
- the data submitted to Caliber.global;
- the data downloaded from the website.

Personal data obtained from other sources:

- data available through public sources, such as but not exclusively social media;
- personal data obtained from the Trade Register and from the Land Registry;
- personal data available on public business websites.

3. LEGAL BASIS FOR PROCESSING

Caliber.global processes your personal data on one or more of the following legal grounds:

- you have given permission to Caliber.global to process your personal data for one or more specific purposes;
- the processing is necessary for the execution of an agreement to which you are a party, or to take measures at your request prior to the conclusion of an agreement;
- processing is necessary to comply with a legal obligation resting on Caliber.global;
- the processing is necessary for the defence of a legitimate interest of Caliber.global or of a third party, unless the interests or rights of the person concerned outweigh the legitimate interest of Caliber.global or the third party.

4. GOALS FOR PROCESSING

Caliber.global processes your personal data for the following purposes:

- to provide our services;
- to comply with our legal and regulatory obligations;
- to inform you of products and services of Caliber.global;
- to approach you for newsletters, only if you have registered for this (opt-in);
- to manage, secure, adapt and improve the website and related technologies;
- to verify your identity;
- for marketing/commercial purposes;
- for recruitment and selection.

5. SHARING WITH THIRD PARTIES

Caliber.global may share your personal data with any company belonging to the group, for the purposes described in this privacy statement.

In some cases we may also share your personal data with third parties. This may include, but is not limited to:

- third parties relevant to the services that we provide, such as subcontractors and/or carriers;
- third parties that we engage with, such as supervisory authorities and other bodies, in order to comply with legal obligations;

- third party suppliers in connection with the processing of your personal data for the purposes described in this privacy statement, such as IT providers, communication service providers or other suppliers to whom we outsource certain support services.

Caliber.global will only transfer your personal data to the above mentioned third parties for the purposes and on the legal grounds stated in this privacy statement. Caliber.global will not sell your personal data to third parties.

To the extent that a third party processes your personal data as a data processor of Caliber.global, Caliber.global will conclude a processor agreement with such party that meets the requirements set out in the GDPR.

Caliber.global may as result of a merger, acquisition or sale of (part) of its business share your personal data with the party (parties) involved in such merger, acquisition or sale of (part of) its business. Of course we will inform you about this via email and/or a clearly visible announcement on our website and inform you about your rights in this respect.

6. TRANSFER OF PERSONAL DATA WITHIN AND OUTSIDE THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC AREA

Caliber.global is an international organization with cross-border business processes, management structures and technical systems. This privacy statement and our practices are intended to provide a consistent level of protection of personal data internationally. Because of the international nature of Caliber.global it may be necessary to pass on your personal data to entities of the Caliber.global group or suppliers, potential or actual buyers, sellers or other business partners located outside the European Economic Area ('EEA'). For example if one of Caliber.global's servers is outside the EEA.

In accordance with articles 44-49 GDPR, Caliber.global will transfer your personal data to other countries outside the EEA only:

1. if the European Commission has decided that the third country guarantees an adequate level of protection, or
2. if appropriate safeguards are provided and the data subjects have enforceable rights and have effective remedies.

In addition, Caliber.global may transfer your personal data to legal entities of the Caliber.global group or suppliers, potential or actual buyers, sellers or other business partners established outside the EEA, if one of the legal exceptions can be invoked (see Article 49 GDPR). Examples are:

1. the transfer is necessary for the execution of an agreement that you have with Caliber.global;
2. if you, after being sufficiently informed, have expressly agreed to this.

In situations where Caliber.global passes your personal data outside the EEA, we respect your personal data and we take measures to ensure that your personal data will remain fully protected.

Please note that in certain circumstances personal data may be provided to government agencies in the context of legal proceedings, court orders or legal proceedings.

7. SECURITY

Caliber.global continuously and structurally take measures to optimally protect your personal data against unauthorized use. Caliber.global takes physical, administrative, organizational and technical measures. Caliber.global took, inter alia, the following measures:

- only persons who are authorized to do so have access to the personal data, whereby as few people as possible have access to the personal data;
- all employees of Caliber.global (regardless of the form of their employment) have signed a confidentiality obligation, whereby they undertake to observe full confidentiality regarding all information of a confidential nature or of which they must understand the confidential nature, including personal data;
- electronic transmission of personal data always takes place via a secure connection;
- the website is secured via https;
- Caliber.global concludes processor agreements and/or agreements with co-responsible parties if personal data are provided to third parties.

In line with the principles above, Caliber.global ensures that all its user settings, programs and services are organized from the start of the development in such a way that your privacy protection is maximized. Caliber.global takes privacy-enhancing (security) measures wherever possible. Information or services are only provided if you indicate this actively.

8. STORAGE PERIODS
